All I have to say is, WOW! This is a fantastic space exploration V real time space battle game! I really can't wait to see what more this game will have in it, once it reaches v1.0. I grew up in the 80's and my first real space exploration game was star control and star control 2. Though, those didn't come out until 1991 and then 1992. These ran on a 486 DX 66, if anyone can remember those computers, lol. Though the graphics of these games, weren't anything, compared to todays standards, they were easy to play and kept me mezmorized in the fact that, I was in space meeting new races and collecting valuable resources to upgrade. SC1 (the original) didn't have that, but you hopefully get the point. This game brought me back 28 years and made me feel 14 years old again. Kudos to all the people that worked on this game. Its easy to play and there is a lot to explore. The upgrade/crafting of the ships is amazing as well. After I purchased this game, I couldn't put it down for over 4 hours straight. I highly recommend purchasing this game for the price. Its only 17-18 bucks and its only on v0.1 something. But there is so much you can do already and there is a quite a bit of content. I've gushed enough, but this is a gem that I'm glad I fell into.. Certainly not what I was expecting. One crappy plane and a bunch of flight plan....

I was expecting a nice tour of England Scotland and Wales. But its just a load of flight plans bundled together. No extra scenery to my knowledge either. Waste of money and consequently Im off. Make sure to always use paypal for purchasing as despite the t&cs regarding refunds you are still entitled to a full refund. We all in the UK have statutory rights - and if the seller is misleading and or illusive in any way about the product they are selling,then you definatly have a paypal case. Sorry steam it appears you have a nice setup and it mimics the xbox consoles of years gone by. But whats with the overpriced addons for FSX. Yes overpriced for an aging product that could be run on my wrist watch. ha. A very well-made point and click., it feels like acohesive adventure, with a nice story and more of an interactive and meaningful feel to the majority of the objects. you interact more with the enviroment, and you also get more of a handle on finding those impossible objects with the "object finder" tool, which givedss you a timed reveal of an object

This is a really nice, quick, puzzle game. This game looks awesome. I bought it, but sadly it will not respond to any control inputs, including keyboard and x-box controller. I have uninstalled and re-installed multiple times and still no luck. Anyone with a similar problem find a fix? I think it looks great, but sadly I cannot recommend a game that I purchase and cannot play because it won't respond to the keyboard or controller.. I recommend this game for creative players. 9/10. OK I wrote a review earlier and I dont know what happened to it but I will restate what I said and add more. The good first. Theres a nifty little campaign quest for people who have never played these games. I have been a long time player of Patrician games. I have played Patrician 3 and loved it. This game is not as nice as Patrician 3. Theres a nifty little campaign quest for people who have never played these games. Well, so far thats it. The bad. One of the first quests in the campaign is to begin hemp production. A little later you will find hat most other cities produce hemp and it is not in demand so you end up with a stroehouse full of hemp. The trade system is glitchy. For example, if you send a convoy to a city you cant have it drop off one item and load another. its all or nothing??? I wanted to bring salt from Lubeck to Aalborg and pick up meat from there to trade but you cant drop off and pick up its either one or the other. Combat is not good. Yes, you can auto combat but the AI isnt good or youcan manually fight which is more drawn out, you can't board and capture ships like in this games predecessor and you can only capture the last ship remaining IF you are in manual combat or you completely dwarf the enemies fleet in auto. In combat you can just simply set your ships to auto engage the otehr ships and then watch. I have invested some time into this game and I think I am done. If this game is on sale I would recommend it as a trainee, but Patrician 3 is better but the politics seems more complicated.. The Journey Quest series is made by the same talented folks behind "The Gamers" series of movies (including The Gamers: Dorkness Rising, and The Gamers: Hands of Fate). If you have any love of RPG style games, stop what you are doing right now and go watch Journey Quest. And watch the Gamers movies. They are both about the funniest things I have ever seen in the fantasy / RPG genre, and are so full of both clever and obvious jokes. But there's a difference: The movies are about the real-world people playing the characters. Journey Quest is an immersive series about the fantasy characters themselves.

I'll keep it simple, any other informations are mentioned from reviewers before.

'Corona Blossom Vol.1' is a kinetic novel (without any choices).

It's an combination of scifi + aliens + robots + cats (sorry, I know you'll kill me for that Lily&Yuni) and a starting romance mixed in.

Front Wing delivered a heart warming kinetic novel again.. Love the idea of this game. Can't wait for multiplayer. Board game that requires quick thinking and platforming.. wow great game with alot of replay value and global boards. Addictive. Life is Shattered.. Really great and nice experience. Seems like a real museum. Visuals are clean and ambiant sounds well chosen. More exhibits would be fine. One point: maybe too much brightness which is inconvenient when looking at Mona Lisa and other canvas.
